"The Customer is Always Right"

HIS is the text or motto of a great and famous department store in Chicago. It is an assertion of the customer's place of supremacy in the relation between buyer and seller.

Any retailer who slights his customer is committing business suicide. The customer wants those who serve him or her to use the newspaper as a vehicle for their announcements of goods or service.

This is the modern and right idea. Newspaper advertisements give desired business news in the right place and at the right time. To ignore your customer's wishes in this matter is to commit a costly mistake---far more costly than newspaper space.

TO THE MERCHANTS OF RED DEER

Keep your eyes on your customers and humor them. It pays to do so. Keep very close to them---by means of advertisements in "The News."

Bank Loans For Western Farmers

(From the Grain Growers' Guide)

The fact that the leaders of the organized farmers from the three Prairie Provinces gathered and met with the Winnipeg section of the Canadian Bankers' Association for the discussion of all matters of interest to the two organizations, speaks volumes for the new public spirit developing in Western Canada. Both these organizations are deserving of the highest commendation for their efforts to improve the business side of the agricultural industry. The conference was arranged for several months ago and the members of the Winnipeg Bankers' Association had had an opportunity to consult with their general managers and superior officers, most of whom are located in Eastern Canada.

They were, therefore, in a position to speak with authority and to make definite proposals to the organized farmers. They expressed themselves as very favorable to the development of the farmers' organization and hope to see it include all the farmers of the Prairie Provinces, in order that they would be able to deal with such an organization instead of individuals. It was quite apparent that as a result of the preliminary negotiations the heads of the banking institutions of Canada have a clearer appreciation of the conditions and needs of Western agriculture. Under the agreement between the bankers and the farmers there will be practically three classes of credit henceforth dispensed from the chartered banks in the West.

1. General financing credit for the transaction of farmers' business between periods of crop shipment.
2. Credit specifically for holding grain in order to market it advantageously throughout the year and maintain prices at a higher level.
3. Credit for the development of the livestock industry.

THREE KINDS OF CREDIT

All three of these credits have been carried to a certain extent by the bankers in the past, but not until this conference was there any general understanding as to the policy of the bankers in this regard. The bankers expressed themselves very forcibly in favor of providing credit for farmers' business, which they considered very desirable, and they were in hearty accord with the farmers in the desire that the farmers should secure all their credit from the bank and do a cash business with everybody else. It will be the aim henceforth of the farmers to arrange their year's credit at the beginning of each year and handle their business on a cash basis until their crop is harvested. It will also be their policy to encourage the livestock industry by granting credits especially for this purpose to run for longer periods than ordinary credits, upon notes to be renewed from time to time in order that the bankers may always have an opportunity to review the security upon which a loan is granted.

The policy of assisting farmers to hold their grain and market leisurely is a departure from the general policy of the past and was very gratifying to the farmers' representatives and it should have a very salutary effect in maintaining uniformly better prices for grain throughout the winter. It was the general feeling of both the farmers and bankers that the conference was highly satisfactory and that it would tend very considerably towards the betterment of agricultural conditions and towards very decidedly improved relations between farmers and bankers. So far as we know it was the first time in history that the bankers' and farmers' representatives, covering such an immense territory, ever gathered together for the purpose of putting their mutual business on a better basis. Arrangements were made for a future conference of the same kind, and we believe that very beneficial results will follow both to the farmers and bankers.

Lloydminster Man Killed in Runaway

Lloydminster, Aug. 17.—A lamentable fatality occurred here Tuesday night, when a highly respected old-time farmer of the Lloydminster territory, William Excell, met a sudden and painful death through the bolting of his team. He was just passing through the farm gates, sitting on the hay rake, when the team became frightened and got out of hand. He was flung off the seat and the rake struck him on the temple, causing instant death. He held the team successfully till the rake hit the gate post, as the horses plunged and struggled to get away, and the jolt unseated him.

Mr. Excell leaves a wife, with whom he lived alone, there being no other members of the family at the old homestead. The deceased was close to the three-score and ten mark.

Might of Great Britain Unbroken

Aberystwith, Wales, Aug. 17.—"Britain's honor is not dead; her might is unbroken, her destiny unfilled, her ideals unshattered by her enemies," declared the secretary of state for war, Lloyd George, in addressing Welsh singing societies at the Eisteddfod here to-day.

"Britain is more alive, more potent, she has greater dominions, her influence is wider, her purpose deeper and more exalted than ever. Why shouldn't her children sing?"

FOE'S ARTILLERY BLIND

Airmen Daren't Show Noses;
Guns Fired Aimlessly

With the French Armies on the Somme, Aug. 18.—Perhaps the most important advantage the allies have had in the Somme offensive is the dominant superiority of their air service.

It was an essential part of the plan of the French general staff that their advantages should be gained at the outset, for the German, when he is driven out of the sky, is half blinded when the big guns commence their destructive cannonade of the German trenches.

Therefore, squadillas of aeroplanes were sent forward to bring down or drive back the German aviators and destroy their sausage observation balloons. Both sorts of raids were carried out with the utmost success. Before the infantry advance began, one familiar balloon had been shot down, and the other was destroyed or pulled down, and the once formidable German pilots were sent back to their bases. In six days, on the British and French fronts, 10 captive balloons were destroyed, meanwhile other aeroplanes were successfully engaged in bombarding or observing the German positions.

That such an important advantage should be accomplished is commendable. It is more difficult to understand how it has been maintained. The German aviators do not lack courage, though they are less daring than the French. Many of the best German aviators have been killed, while others no doubt are being kept in the rear for a war of movement requires air scouts more urgently than the siege war of the past. Whatever the explanation may be, the fact is beyond doubt.

At one point on Sauterre plateau 23 French sausages were counted, dragging at a height upon their cables and only two that could be German, of which one was doubtful. French aeroplanes of all types came and went on their patrol duties with the freedom of pigeons over a farmyard, and if there was any combat in the air it did not take place over the French lines.

At one of the many aviator parks the correspondent was deeply impressed by the immense progress made during the war on every side of this enterprise, under the stimulus of military necessity and individual skill and pluck.

Some able French writers have been warning their countrymen during the last few days that the Germans are bound to attempt soon a counter offensive in the west. Even if it should prove as costly as the ill-starred adventure against Verdun, this is perfectly sound advice. With the fleets of the German armies nailed down before the French trenches, they must at least expect powerful local attacks. But setting aside the question of their exhausted reserves, one does not see how they can attempt anything like a large offensive without first winning back at least an equality in the air service and of that there is no present prospect, at least in Picardy and Sauterre.

THE SNIPERS BUSY

The following comment from the Toronto Mail and Empire is a hard rap at such penny a liner scribbles as (Gladly and his backers who are sniping at the Government from every conceivable angle:

While they (the Borden Government) have been working, forgetful of everything but their duty to their country and the Empire, they have had the black flies of the Laurier press always buzzing about them, drawing blood whenever hands were too busy to brush them off. If the victims of this petty persecution have taken it as an incident of the day's work, the general public have been equally inattentive to it. Everybody is patriotically occupied except these vicious pursuers of the Government. They are in the business of party politics, of political scandal-mongering, of defaming and vilifying the Government. The moral strength of the Government's position is indicated by the nature of the attacks that are made upon it. If there were anything wrong in the Government's course, we may be sure it would be something of greater weight than this plodding battle that would be employed against it. The extreme Opposition press must be in constant for mutations when it makes sniping use of such stuff as it is firing off about the new Parliament Buildings. If it is possible to make public business free from suspicion or taint or party abuse it surely has been done in this case. The committee which has the matter in hand is made up of members on both sides of the House. Why Mr. Murphy has been moved to take the course he has taken in the matter no one not in the mysteries of Opposition tactics can say. His Liberal colleagues are not trying to escape their duty and responsibility in the premises. Everything had been done with their approval.

“I think that is an ideal in which we shall all equally share. I mean we all play an equal part in its realization.”

Mr. Bourassa gives almost a page of space in his organ, Le Devoir, in replying to his cousin. He declares that Captain Papineau is utterly unequalled by reason of his American blood, to judge of the feelings of the French-Canadians, and that he is separated from those he calls his countrymen by his “religious belief and his maternal language.”

Whatever impression may be created in Quebec, there can be no doubt that the sympathy of the other provinces of the Confederation will be with the loyal Captain Papineau, who has been, it is said, transferred from the position of aide to General Alderson, to the literary staff of Sir Max Aitken, the “Eye Witness.”

THESE ARE FATEFUL DAYS

(Toronto Mail and Empire)

Upon the progress of the Allies' campaign against Austria this autumn depends at least six months' warfare. If before snow falls heavily the Russians and Italians can fight their way through to Caracow on the one side and Trieste on the other Austria's fate will have been decisively settled. All that would then remain would be a joint invasion of Austria and Hungary, and the Emperor Franz Joseph would have to throw up the sponge. From such a close encircling grip the Germans could not succor their Allies. Germany would be practically isolated, and be compelled to surrender or fight on over winter in a hopeless contest. The splendid progress being made by the Russian armies in Galicia and the Italians in the Trentino is determining now the solution to the question Austria's death-warrant is being signed.

It is true that neither Britain nor Russia will reach their full offensive power on land before next spring. Both have immense armies yet in training, and yet waiting for the javish artillery equipment and supply trains to make them irresistible.

Were progress now to cease, the respite would bring more tremendous power to the Allies. There is no need, no intention, of giving the enemy a moment's rest. The pressure being exerted now is drawing out all the available Teuton strength, wearing it down and down, while the Allies' power, notwithstanding losses, is constantly being re-upped. A most essential element in that wear-out process is the complete destruction of Austria-Hungary's already spily-nattered armies. If they are reduced to mere fragments and the Allies are able to get to Nish, and thus cut the Orient railroad, the “corridor” joining the northern and southern wings of the Teutonic allies will have been severed, and the southern half would speedily succumb. From the development of the Allies' plans so far, it seems that they contemplate a converging drive on Austria from Salonic, to be timed with the arrival of the Russians and Italians at the gates of Austria itself. Fighting on three sides, and possibly four, if Rumania joined, how long would the forces of the Entente last, when even now they have to have German battalions among them to maintain their courage?

In this month of August, though few perhaps realize it, the Allies' campaign is to decide whether the war is to be longer or shorter by six months. If the pressure on Austria-Hungary succeeds, if Turkey is isolated, the freeing of the Grand Duke's armies and the British army in Egypt, upon the Ottoman collapse, would place perhaps a million hardened, tried soldiers at the disposal of the Entente general staffs for striking at Germany. That million alone, if free by the end of the year, would be sufficient to turn the scale in many an attack to force the Germans within their own borders. The Russians are at Stanislaw and almost assured of Lemberg, the Italians are on the plateau leading to Trieste, the British and French are up to the Maurepas-Guillémont line, and wading forward. The balance of this month and September will be fateful in their influence on future progress.

Pope Benedict Has Declared Himself Against The Huns

Rome, via London, Aug. 19.—Pope Benedict has instructed all the cardinals in Italy to pray for victory for Italy and her Allies, hitherto the cardinals, following the pope's example, have been preaching and praying for peace at all their services. They have exhorted all the faithful to attend the functions of intercession for an early peace. Now, however, they will pray for the defeat of the Teutonic powers. Cardinal Ferrari, archbishop of Milan, and other cardinals holding episcopal sees have publicly explained that the Catholic church wants to see a lasting peace. They are convinced now that no peace can be lasting unless the war ends victoriously for Italy and her Allies. They are urging, therefore, that all loyal citizen churchmen should join in efforts to win the war.

WRONG ACCUSATION

Italian anti-clericals here accused the Catholics of wanting a premature peace, a peace at any price. Such a peace, they say, would be to the advantage of the Teutonic powers. It has been apparent for a long time that Pope Benedict was leaning toward the cause of Italy and so toward the Allies. Soon after the war commenced the pope permitted the Italian army to recruit all but 50 of the Swiss guards on duty in the Vatican, and a little later he broke a precedent by causing the hospice of Santa Marta, an annex of the Vatican, to be used as a hospital for Italian soldiers.

SHOWED HIS FEELINGS

Pope Benedict showed how he felt toward the Teutonic allies when he had Monsignor Berlach, his Austrian private chamberlain, interned in the Vatican for a time and then sent back to Austria. Monsignor Berlach was accused of falsifying the pope's words in an interview with a German-American newspaper man, in which Monsignor Berlach interpreted.

Pope Benedict also has protested to Germany against the oppression of the Belgians, and only recently protested against deportation of civilians of the conquered northwestern parts of France.

This is the first time since Italy was united in 1870 that a Catholic has been a member of the cabinet. Signor Meda, a Catholic, became minister of finance in the coalition cabinet formed recently after the fall of the Salandra ministry. The pope was pleased at the appointment.

London, Aug. 19.—The Daily Express features an article by its naval expert on “Our New Zeppelins,” which says:

“During the last week I have watched the great British airships at work, and although I am unable to make practical comparisons with the German Zeppelins, our new airships certainly seem marvellously light and beautifully designed. Mariners, who have made close observations of German dirigibles, consider our new airships capable of being handled more readily, of finer model altogether less cumbersome than the German type. The British airships, moreover, attain an amazingly high speed.”

Canadian Troops Out of Ypres

The role which the Canadian troops have played in the war has been changed from the defensive to the offensive. They have been transferred from the bloodstained salient of Ypres to the region of the Somme where over 90,000 of them will now be found in the front lines of the attack on the Germans. Four months ago Major-General Sam Hughes is said to have objected to the sacrifice entailed upon the Canadian ranks, because of their position at Ypres, where they were exposed on three sides to the German fire. The Canadian minister himself asserted that he discussed the matter with Lord Kitchener before the latter's death; that he did so at the request of Canadian officers who could see no reason why the line should not be straightened at Ypres—which was regarded as the "gateway to Paris"; that General Hughes looked upon the heavy Canadian losses in holding Ypres as somewhat needless, and that Lord Kitchener had been considerably affected by General Hughes' statement. When Sir Sam made this declaration at Ottawa, a whole lot of the Liberal newspapers and the entire anti-Hughes press "went wild" to ridicule and protest. It would seem, however, as if the charges which had better be left alone. Sir Sam has been in Britain about three weeks; the position of the Canadian troops has been changed; they are no longer in a position where the Germans can fire at them from three sides; the British are reporting progress every day; the "gateway to Paris" is apparently still safe; Canadian losses are now less in an offensive than they were when on the defensive at Ypres; and 90,000 of the best men that ever went on a battle field—and they from Canada—are ready to charge the front trenches of the Germans, at the word of command, as none but Canucks can. Sir Sam Hughes MAY not know anything at all about military strategy or the war game. It will be noted, however, that the Canadian troops are now out of the position from which Hughes wanted them taken months ago. Enough said.—Calgary News-Telegram

Turks Lost Half of Army in Battle With British

London, Aug. 18.—In the recent operations around Katia, east of the Suez canal, the losses sustained by the Turkish forces were estimated at about 9,000 men, including prisoners or virtually one-half the force, according to a further report on the Egyptian operation given out by the war office, this evening. The report says: "The pursuit of the enemy was maintained until the 12th and it is now possible to form a more accurate idea of the enemy's strength and losses. The enemy force amounted to probably 18,000 men. We took 4,000 prisoners, 49 officers and 3,877 men; the known killed amounted to 1,251, and wounded are estimated at 4,000, aggregating in round numbers 9,000. "The following war material was brought in: One Krupp 75 battery of four guns complete with accessories and 4,000 rounds. Many weapons, 2,300 rifles with 1,000,000 rounds of ammunition; nine German machine guns with 30 boxes of ammunition; large quantities of material and equipment of all kinds; 500 camels and 100 horses. "During the retreat the Turks burned a large quantity of stores at Bir-El-Aid, and abandoned two field hospitals."

Say Germans Are Chained to their Guns

Machine Gun and Shell Crater Warfare Has Replaced Trench Fighting.

With the British Army in France, Aug. 17, via London, Aug. 18.—The torrential rain Monday and yesterday made it an inconceivably miserable night for the German gunners, and their posts in shell craters, filled with water up to their necks. The Germans seem to have definitely given up trying to dig any trenches along the front where the British hold the high ground and the old second German lines. The British gun fire falls in every trench that is started by the British attacks. Not the Prussian Guards, or the Brandenburgers, but machine gunners are now the crack corps of the Germans. Specially picked men take the oath never to surrender and our troops report that they are chained to their guns by officers to prevent them from succumbing to any temptation to flee. This is confirmed by witnesses who have taken such men in the recent fighting.

Machine gun and shell crater warfare has replaced trench fighting as a means of defense against the British attacks. Not the Prussian Guards, or the Brandenburgers, but machine gunners are now the crack corps of the Germans. Specially picked men take the oath never to surrender and our troops report that they are chained to their guns by officers to prevent them from succumbing to any temptation to flee. This is confirmed by witnesses who have taken such men in the recent fighting. Machine guns are dragged out to the shell craters under cover of darkness, and during the day the gunners lie hugging the earth in most uncomfortable positions. They are battered by the sun by day and shiver in the wet night. If the least movement discloses their location by day a hurricane of mortar and gun fire is turned on them. British snipers are always lying in wait for the first sign for something to shoot at. Some of the Germans who had been captured had been days without food, isolated as they are by the continual sniping.

Serbia

Among so many sufferers Serbia must not be forgotten. She did not hesitate to challenge immensely superior forces. She fought with a heroism that needs no praise of ours. She contributed greatly to our cause by refusing any terms but battle. Battle she received—and now lies dead. A nation in exile. Living God knows how, on the providence of our hands, until such time as we win back her soil and restore her nobly-ruled folk. Ours is the duty of their claim. Theirs is a personal claim on our hearts and our purses. We must not shun this responsibility. Many writers in modern periodicals have tried to describe the retreat of the Serbian army. One we recall, an American woman who led a red cross unit with the skill and courage of a general, told of the amazing patience and endurance of the Serbs under stress that would have shattered less nobly-ruled folk. Ours is the easy part of the war compared to that of the Serbs. We must not forget this.

SPORTING CASUALTIES

Baseball Heads List For Decade—One Killed at Tennis

A statistical supplies the information that 943 sports men were sacrificed on the fields of sport in the ten years ending in 1915. Not a great many considering the number engaged. Baseball, which thousands and thousands play, heads the list, with 248 fatalities. Football is second with 215, auto racing third with 123, and boxing fourth, with 105. In this time seventy-four lost their lives at horse racing. Of the strenuous games, wrestling has the best record, only fifteen perishing on the mat. One of the surprising facts is that fourteen persons should lose their lives playing golf in ten years. Golf is supposed to be an old man's sport. Nine were killed at bowling, but only one at lawn tennis.

Correct Ball Diamond

The correct baseball diamond as set forth by the major league is the distance from home plate to first base is 87 feet 9 inches; first to second 88 feet 10 inches, and from third base to the home plate, 87 feet 9 inches. The front part of the home plate is exactly 17 inches long from the back of the pitcher's box. The plate itself is 17 inches long, making the total distance from the box to the rear of the plate 60 feet 6 inches.

Cameron as Hindenburg

George Cameron, a Scotch musician, before the war decided he could make more money at his call than he had as a German name. So he changed his name to Hindenburg. Then came the conflict, the resultant dislike of Germans in Great Britain and troubles for the Scot. He changed his name back to its original Highland form. But there was a protest at this which got into the House of Commons. A member asked the Home Secretary if he knew of this change of name on the part of the leader in the Torquay orchestra. The Secretary stated that Cameron is a natural born British subject, as were also both his father and his mother.

Tea-growing in India

Scattered all over India we find the British-owned and managed tea gardens. From insignificant beginnings has grown up a huge industry, till we now have 600,000 acres growing tea, and employing 700,000 persons of both sexes. Producing 250,000,000 pounds, India sends her teas all over the civilized world. India is now the greatest tea-exporting country in the world. Australia, New Zealand, Canada—all the British dominions beyond the seas—have shared in this expansion of the tea trade.

John L. and Edward VII.

A western writer revived the story concerning John L. Sullivan's meeting many years ago with the Prince of Wales, who later became King Edward. John, then in the heyday of his career, was asked to meet the future King. "I am pleased to meet you," said the Prince. "I am glad to know you, Prince," shot back John. "I have heard quite a bit about you," said the Prince. "What about you?" asked John. "I have heard quite a bit about you," said the Prince. "What about you?" asked John. "I have heard quite a bit about you," said the Prince. "What about you?" asked John.

Curfew at 6:15 P.M.

The precautions against air raids necessitated the alteration at Chester of a centuries-old custom. Since the distant days of the Norman Conquest the curfew at Chester has been rung, without, it is believed, a break, from 8:50 p.m. to 9 p.m. each night. For the dark months, however, it rang at 6:15 p.m., and then, as the days lengthened, the time was advanced until the traditional hour was reached.

In order that they may readily identify the enemy, photographs of the German and Austrian soldiers are displayed in the camps of the British Indian troops.

What is believed to be the oldest inhabited residence in the world is a mansion in Germany that was built in 760.

A Low-salaried President

M. Giuseppe Motta, recently elected Swiss President, will enjoy an annual salary of $2,700—an increase of $300 on the sum he drew as Minister of Finance and Customs. No minister in Switzerland receives more than $2,000 a year from public funds, and the President sets an example of democratic simplicity in his style of living.

Ex-Mayor Volunteered

The ex-Mayor of Zantborou, Mr. R. T. Thornton, who is sixty-two years of age, went to France to "do his bit," by driving an ambulance for the French Red Cross.

Dr. Samuel Johnson defined patriotism as "the last refuge of a scoundrel." The man who gets his income from this country in a time of war and spends a good share of it in another is the last kind of scoundrel that could be considered a patriot.

JENNINGS: FIGHTER

Famous Tiger Manager Began Life as Breaker Boy

One's first impression of Hugh Jennings is that he possesses a disregard for an extraordinary degree. His sharp nose and keen eye bespeak that. Then, a square jaw is the sign manual of the batter the world over. Then that he is courageous, thoughtful, a man of the world, for whom the world's goods have been fashioned. Most of all to the Pennsylvania's credit is that he has risen from a two-dollar-a-week breaker boy to one of the highest salaried managers in the game. Jennings is a man of note solely by his own efforts. "Pull" he had none. He lacked the "conqueror's" difficulties that would have wrecked the aspirations of many men who were less courageous. His first game played in Louisville would have been enough to send the average youngster back to the "dough" for ridicule in the event he did not face that actual physical danger. Jennings has faced lots of sneers in his time, and has taken, too, his share of praise with becoming modesty.

Adverse Crop Reports

Crop reports from Manitoba are disappointing, says the Toronto Mail and Empire, and in Alberta and Saskatchewan there is now considerable discount on the earlier glowing reports. Unfavorable weather during July took at least several bushels from the average yield per acre, instead of a wheat crop as large as last year's, 376,000,000 bushels, from an acreage about 15 per cent. smaller, the estimate now places the wheat yield at 275,000,000 bushels. Even that would have to be regarded as a good ordinary yield. It is much larger than the average of the last three or four years, but the Canadian West has consolation for the depreciation in the assurance that high prices will prevail because of the shortage over the border. If the wheat yield of the Canadian

West is down 100,000,000 bushels from last year which may be too pessimistic an estimate—the farmers are not likely to be hurt by adverse weather as the United States wheat-growers have been. Last year over the border the wheat yield was the phenomenal one of 1,000,000,000 bushels, the greatest on record. The Government crop report the other day estimated only 651,000,000 bushels for this year for Winter and Spring wheat combined. That is only 65 per cent. of the 1915 production. The violent advances in the wheat pit have begun the discounting of the new conditions, and in London the price of wheat, flour and bread begins to go up. As Canada would have out of 275,000,000 bushels about 175,000,000 for export, we would be in a position of great advantage, for the export surplus from a United States yield of 651,000,000 bushels would be practically nothing. The American farmer was a heavy competitor in the European market last year, having 300,000,000 bushels for export. The Canadian farmer will get the cream of that trade this year. British crop reports have indicated a considerably increased yield of wheat at home, but this was at the sacrifice of other grains. Britain will have to buy more heavily than usual, for her own account and for France and Italy, whose women and children are killing the land. It may be that the Canadian farmers' income from a lesser crop this year will be no smaller than it was from the larger yield of 1915. What would the opening of the harvest mean for the wheat importing nations? The Russian wheat harvests of 1914 and 1915 aggregated 1,782,000,000 bushels. Russia's population consumes coarse grains almost as readily as wheat, when it is necessary, but figuring the future on the past, these harvests left an exportable surplus of 400,000,000 bushels. From these rather theoretical figures must be subtracted Poland's wheat, which would average 24,000,000 bushels a year. Then there has been much waste on account of the state of war. Meanwhile, however, this year's world's wheat yield will be reduced by 600,000,000 bushels, chiefly owing to the crop failure in the United States.

UNDERSEA WARFARE IN FULL FORCE AGAIN

Naval Expert of the Temps Makes This Statement With Proof

Paris, Aug. 18.—Germany's submarine warfare against merchant ships is again in full swing, according to the naval expert of the Temps. The Temps declares that this new submarine campaign follows the German note to the United States of February 10 in which it was said: "Merchant ships carrying guns cannot be considered peaceful ships." According to the Temps the Germans are now acting under this notice and it says that three days ago the Italian ship "Plata" repulsed with gunfire attacks of an enemy submarine. The article concludes with an emphatic declaration that a similar course will be followed by other commanders of merchant ships, undismayed by "the murder of Captain Fryatt."

Canucks Leave Ypres Salient for the Somme

GEN. "DAVE" WATSON REACHES FRANCE WITH FOURTH DIVISION

Ottawa, Aug. 16.—The role which the Canadian troops have played in the war is to be changed from the defensive to the offensive. They have been transferred from the bloodstained salient of Ypres to the region of the Somme. For over a year they have held one of the most dangerous and vital positions of the allied battle fronts against the best of the Kaiser's army. They repelled continuous attempts to reach Calais and at least 20,000 of the Dominion's troops died or were wounded in holding that much coveted road. Now they will take their place with the British and Australian troops on the Somme in the more congenial, but no less glorious, task of driving the German invaders out of France.

FOUR DIVISIONS AT FRONT
Four divisions are now at the

King at Front Praises Troops' Gallant Work

WENT RIGHT OUT IN THE FIELD, BUT NO SHELL FELL NEAR HIM

With the British Armies in the field, Aug. 16, London.—All the turmoil of the war has surged about the King, day after day during his week in the field just ended, and an endless procession of Great Britain's manifold now in the fighting ranks passed him on the roads, not in review order, but as the men went up to the trenches to do their work of war.

The King has taken certain risks—he would have been glad to have been shot—he has gone to places well within the range of the German guns, and still he returned from time to time. On Saturday there was a historic rendezvous when King George, with Sir Douglas Haig, had a meeting in a chateau of France with the President of the French Republic, Gen. Poincaré, and Gen. Foch. On Sunday the king attended a religious service among his troops, and the following day he returned to London, where he visited the king and queen of the Belgians.

On Thursday last the king had his most memorable experience. He went further than the edge of the battlefields, where thousands of his troops were still fighting, but went out into that stretch of ground which bears upon every yard of it a trace of the recent battle and the relics of those who fought and fell.

KING IN TUMMOIL
The king was in the midst of all the turmoil of war. Invisibly men were firing with a thumping clatter, followed by dull crashes as the heavy shells burst upon the ground of British lines. A rush of shells went through the sky. The air was filled with those queer familiar noises of the battlefield, of whizzing bullets, of dream nights—the shrill singing note of a bit of flying steel and the knock-knock-knockings of the field guns, the humming of aeroplanes, and the dull roar of a distant rumble.

No shells came near the king. That was his luck. I have stood several times in this neighborhood and seen them fall unpleasantly near. There was no reason why any moment there should not have been a mad puff of German shrapnel over the king's head. There is no life insurance in these places, and the king took the risk like the other men.

ISSUES ORDER
London, Aug. 16.—After his visit to the front, King George issued a general order expressing his appreciation of the splendid confidence of all ranks, and his understanding of the demands on the courage and physical endurance of the men required to as-excellent report of July 23 is very marked. The average yield of the twelve provinces will not exceed 11 or 12 bushels at the outside. This is just a little better than half a crop. The average yield of the province of Manitoba, covering a period of 29 years, is 18.98, or practically 19 bushels per acre. Acreage estimated for the present year is 2,994,529, as against 3,332,000 in 1915.

At 12 bushels to the acre on this year's acreage the province would have 35,935,348 bushels. This in itself is a very good prospect. The yield would not be bad, if the quality of the wheat was good, but the percentage of No. 1 northern will be negligible, and there will be very little No. 2.

Major Page Writes Sympathetic Letters to Bereaved Relatives

Mr. J. W. Broughton has received letters from the front concerning the death of his son, Corp. Broughton, of the 5th Battalion, from which it appears that he was instantly killed while on duty by a rifle shot.

Fluders, July 25, 1916

Dear Mr. Broughton:—It is with the deepest sympathy and regret I have to tell you that your son Colin was killed last night, hit by a stray bullet and killed instantaneously, suffering no pain at all. I know how hard a blow this will be to you and Mrs. Broughton, and I wish to offer you my deepest and sincerest sympathy. You have had much of sorrow in the past and this will come as a crushing blow to you. I know. But possibly it may ease things a little for you when you think that as soon as danger threatened our country, your son Colin did not waver or hesitate for a moment but stepped forward at once to defend all he held dear. His death is a big loss to us too. He was always bright and cheerful. The dangers inseparable from a campaign, he bore uncomplainingly, he faced danger coolly and unflinchingly and was an example to all ranks. His place will be hard to fill. We are burying him in a cemetery about a mile from the trenches and we are erecting a cross over it giving his number, rank and name, and a soldier's epitaph: "Killed in Action."

Your boy has not died in vain. The loss of our old comrades only makes those who are left the more determined to fight this war to a finish. If you would like a photo of his grave you can get one by applying to the O.C., H.B., Graves Registration Commission B.E.F.

His sentimental effects will be sent to you through the usual channels. If you wish to have anything at all that I can do for you please write and let me know and I will do my best. The Colonel and Colin's comrades join me in extending to you and Mrs. Broughton my kindest sympathy in your loss. Believe me, Sincerely yours, L. F. PAGE Major 5th Battalion.

LA. Bachelier writes:—

It is with deep sorrow and regret that I write this letter to tell you of the death of your poor son who was killed on July 25.

Although I have not been in the same platoon with your son for very long, I have been with the 5th since the Valenciennes days and have seen your son and heard of him, and he is deeply mourned by all his comrades who knew his sterling value.

He was killed instantly by a rifle bullet in the head and he was saved a short distance behind the firing line. I, Jim Worley, a chum of Colin's who was with him when he was shot, also writes most sympathetically of his loss. He was a good living soldier, the private virtues, and the boys who left Red Deer in the first contingent only three were left—Brown, Broughton and himself. Less than a week after, Colin Broughton was shot.

Mrs. Rowell and Mr. Kingzett have received letters from Major Page, of the 5th Battalion, Second Infantry Brigade, Second Canadian Division, dated 21st July, expressing his deepest sympathy with them in the loss of their son, William Sharp. He was a first-class fellow, the Major wrote, quiet, efficient and brave, and they felt his loss very much. Of all the boys who left Red Deer in the first contingent only three were left—Brown, Broughton and himself. Less than a week after, Colin Broughton was shot.

Cheerful as the June Sun

SO many homes lack proper heating that it is often thought houses must either be cold in winter or hot and stuffy. Yet the heating of a home can be like the natural warmth of June—if you have a Sunshine Furnace.

Pure air is sent evenly over the house, warm and fresh and clean and healthfully humid. The dust and fine ashes so often seen whenever most furnaces are shaken down never get out of the Sunshine Furnace.

Firing up and closing the dampers of the Sunshine Furnace does not send coal gas into the house. The volume of gas freed from the new coal is drawn off up the chimney. The Sunshine not only keeps the whole house warm and cosy, but continually circulates clear, pure air.
